If Gladstone should due to moreo y his speech proposing home rule and an Itch pur imment for Ireland would stone be subtrent to keep his name in grataful melions in allocant to keep his name in grataful melions; in blis fun forever glorious as the greatest statesman if his contary. At 77 years of age this old in an eloquent held the Britash partiament spellmont for three bours and a half. There is nothing like it in the createst states. the annals of modern statesmanding like in the annals of modern statesmanding I lord Brougham, Lord Painer Russelt, Lord Painer ston and Lord Benconst the relative very old men, but none of the materials resure was equal to such a praiding elegation fragming and equal to such a priding electric finapiring and impressive oratoriag was performed by distone on Thursday. When we presented to distone on Thursday. When we present on the impressive ment of the speech as a fixt of oral tory to the spirit of the substantish, it from mands unbounded as ment. At above is the only English state-sign who has ever dared to put official power had been a postularity in peril for Ireland, by different when he diseasehilabed the Irish church in the sign of their opening of the control of the first church in the second obstructed by the Principito but he has possessed his prest tool in putting, and only of the disease of the disease of the first church in the control of the first church in the church in the control of the first church in the chu possessed his great soul in patience, and to-day be rises to a hight of advanced thought in his frish policy that has compelled seen the sungert and gratitude of the hypercritical Parnell The samess of Mr Gladstone ites in the fact that he has a screme soul that not only sours entinely above race prejudice, but he has a sympathetic expectly to put himself in the place of the Irish people, possessed by no other great Englishman of his time. Ireland is peopled by a race position and passionate enough to keep green the mem-ory of her pollitical martyrs, their story as part of its literature, lives not only in its history and poetry, but in the songs and traditions of the common people. Such a nation is to the last untamable, intractable, unconquered and unconquerable. The Irish race has been subject to England for more than 700 years, and Ireian is has always been an unreconstructed rebel, weep ing and gnashing its teeth over the memory of its historical wrongs. France could trailidize Al sace and Lorraine in two bundred years, Bismarck won it back and Germanicized it, replacing the French with the German language in the schools, churches and courts Bunarck proposes to Germanicize Foland by pulling up the disloyal faction by the roots, even as Comwell did in Ireland, but 700 years of tyrauny and the might of misgovernment has not Augli-cized the Irishman. The Irishman in rags and Wretchedness grows fat on those poetic, patriolic memories that are the strength of a nation, and the Irish are to-day as vital, indomitable a race as there is in Europe France moulded Germans into enthusinstic France mounted Germans into enthusinates Franchmen, Bismarck has made good Germans of these Frenchmen, but England has never been able to extinguish the patriotic vindictive memory and rebelieus hostility of Freiand Gladatone sees this, he sees that concron or Gladstone sees this, he sees that coercion or might has failed to govern Ireland, so to-day he says let us substitute the policy of right for might let us take shorapressulatives of Ireland at their word and grant Ireland, as we have Caneda and Australia, home rule, let us, who bave miserably failed to govern Ireland, suffer Ireland to govern itself. He repudiates the monstrous doctrine that an Lushman, alone of

Gladstone is the greatest statesman in Firope. to-day bating war, loving peace, his fireign policy is sometimes feeble and 'resitating where that of Bismarck would be vigirous and decisive, but if the victories of peace, will by peace ful agriation and argument, are nobler than those won by the sword and the pressure and ceaseless threat of a vast standing army, then Gladstone is greater than Bismarck Bismurck has founded an empire, has thus far successfully defended and maintained it. Possessing an iron will, heart and head, fearless, oneigetic, eagacous, prompt, pitliess in purpose, full of epileal contempt for popular rights, a great war minister, Bismprek is kin to the genius of Frederick the Great; the genius for "blood and iron" distensionable. The mass of the people hate and fear him they sullenly wait for the day when King Death shall discrown Bamarck, and then when the architect and sugmeer of this soy how soon the vast work of that great brain and mighty hand will tumble into rule? He has done for his soldier sovereign what Richelieu and Mazarin did for weak I rench king; what Cavoir did for Victor Emmanue! he has carried an incorporated description in the has carried an iron-banded despot safely on his strong back through storms that would have destroyed a king with a less zole minister, but when death strikes down Busmarck his military achine, webbed with non and welded with god, will be no more likely to stand under a less able statesman than did the England Cromwell wrought when consigned to the care of Cromwell's son. The military despotism of the erman empire will not long survive Bismarca will have to relax its pressure or hight for life But when Gladstone dies the beneficence of his burnane policy of increase i, and ever advancing trust in the people will survive him, incruse it does not stand for a leg born and bred under the bayoned it simple for the aspiration of the pe de, the while people it is the torch of true blerty that is never dropped is passed from: he har inform patrict to the next helt to the lark less up of popular rights. IBE FUTURE OF THE SOUTH

The South for the future is a kelly to become an increasing conservitive force in the nation. There continue to be spiry lie cases of tu bu lence and bloody race riots within her bottlers, like the recent Cirrollion massacre, which really is no greater hist on the shield of the South lence and bloody race riots within her borders, like the recent Cirroliton massacre, which really so no greater flut on the shield of the South than the Wyoming Chimese massacre is on the scutcheon of the North led in candor it must be confessed that the South has been more tighted and the south reference in Newton and the south reference in the south may be according to the south reference in the south and the south reference in the south will resort the south reference in the south will resort the south reference in the south will resort that, as burnan nature is made un, the South will reform its social aduses more impuly when left to fix own divites than it even did under the a vitch of Jederal statutes and congressional against in The incredical te pride of section the slowly dying resentinents of the war, are tati o The incredical le pride of section the slowly dying resentinents of the war, are aroused and teorgenized into fresh activity, when congress trees to a pair the South with the club of its legislation, or to consert it by the seventy of its criticism. I fit to its own con-science and increasing a use of local self inter-est, the South with goidn'ts consent to recent its policy reform its abuses and ultimately reach that policial wisdom which looks lynch law sternly in the eye and calls it crame.

In the long run right and justice will win agranst wrong and injustice, and popular initificance will finally yield to public consistion. The appeal to the decent opinions of mankind, made by Southern men of the type of I amar, colouit, Cordon and Hampton, will ultimately to the strong for the Solid South, her bigdted pre udices of caste and color will wear out, she will at last haul cown her flag with her own hands that she has never permitted us to haul down, and will no longer resist the constitution and the laws of the restored Union, because she will find out that it does not pay to do otherwise, as a matter of principle or sound public policy. No additional legislation on the veted and vexing subject of the South will help the matter, agitation within the South by its natur al leaders of opinion will finally win the day Thoughtful men of both parties have reached this conclusion. The proof of it is the utter in-difference of the North to the speech of Con-gressman Boutelle of Maine last January, on cerning the report that certain inhibits commenorating the waif for the Union had been re-moved at the Norfolk navy yard. Had like speech been delivered five years ago it would have fired the republican heart, but to-day it falls flat, because the reopic no longer look at he war with eyes blinded by the cataract of sectional passion. The tiny keyster has effaced from the war record of the various "regul r regiments the names of the battles of the rel el-lich, in the spirit of public policy which per-suaded England to blot "Culloden," "Boxne Water," Aughrim" and "Timerick" from her regimental banners | Charles Summer fifteen years ago urged this policy upon our gove n-ment. Grant mac: the robel Orr minister to St. ment. Grant mac: the robel Orr minuter to St. Petersburg, and Mosby consul to China. Long street was made minister to Turkey, Hales called key confederate brigadier, into his cabinet. Mahone and kiddleberger were welcomed by a republican senate, Joe Johnston and Buckber were bidden to Grant's funeral a republican senate elected a confederate soldter. (Constant of the China and China. Additional and the confederate soldter.) ady) sergenuted arms over a Union siddler and the general government has committed itself to the approval, if not the enforcement, of Summer a views that it is not wise, now that ex confederates are eligible to all others in the guit of the government, to perpetuate within the public works of the government inscriptions calculated to restore butter memories of crulettife. The common sense of the people of both parties answered (ougressman Routelle, that since the children of confederate soldiers are exgille to a immission to the army and many of the United States it is not decent courtesy, let alone policy, to eak the that iren to march under but nere that relate the batter rill of their fathers' defeat and surrender. If this argument is sound as applying to the flags of the regular army it is sound when applied in the forts and public works that belong to our military poets. The common sense of the people declares to-day that until the South shoots at the flag again we cannot object to its citizens, who accept our offer of equal civil rights and privileges, that they once warred on the flag, under which, by writte of law, they hall office to-day with as cient a right as if they hall followed frant and fought Lee. The South is to-day notionusly conservative in religion it is universally orthodox, while New langiand is largely agnostic, the worth is conservative in the luming quesnud paval etations the South is conservative on the hurning ques tions of industrial agitation, that threaten to rise to social incendiarism, the South that was near a solid for low tariff before the war, is in course of rapid conversion to the policy of protection. In many points of view the courts promises to become a conservative balance in promises to become a conservative bidance in the public opinion of the nation, while the North's drift is toward radicatism and industrial agitation that needs a brake on its mountail wagon of progress to ensure a safe descent of all its difficulties.

Timally we believe the both has before it a better future in literature. Before the wor the hiterature of America owed nothing of its greatness to the South. The explanation of this factors in the in any notional superfective of the
